Chamber Opens Drive For 2,000 Members

APPROXIMATELY 75 members of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce yesterday attended a luncheon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, launching its membership drive.

LeRoy Mikels, president of the chamber, and Montgomery F. Crowe, industrial committee chairman, were the principal speakers.

Mikels welcomed the newly-appointed "ambassadors" of the chamber, who will solicit new members. Fifteen of the group will act as captains.

"Now is the time to build a bigger and better Monroe County," Mikels said. "We must have more industry here. New industry will make new jobs. The salaries from the new jobs will be spent locally. We will all benefit."

Professional People

"Doctors, lawyers, dentists, real estate agents — they will all benefit. Tell them this and they will join," he concluded.

Crowe outlined the industrial committee's functions, noting that attracting industry is a highly competitive business and that competing communities have an advantage over Monroe County because of larger industrial funds and better availability of utilities.

Three Awards

Crowe said there are more than 500 local residents working outside the county. "With the money realized from the drive, we will have a much better chance to get new industry to come to Monroe County," he added.

J. Albert Groner, membership chairman, and William Nixon, his assistant, announced three awards for "ambassadors" scoring most points during the drive.

First prize will be a trip to Bermuda for two; second will be a swimming pool membership for two at Glen Brook Country Club and third will be a $50 savings bond.

The point system is based on different totals for new members, renewals and multiple membership units.

Groner said the drive will end June 6 with a report meeting for two at Glen Brook Country Club and third will be a $50 savings bond.

Industrialist Lists Guides For Selecting Plant Sites

HARRISBURG (AP)—An unsurpassed spirit of cooperation was listed by an official Monday as one of the reasons his firm chose Pennsylvania as the site of two new plants costing six million dollars.

Norman Caplan, manager of the communications products department of the Radio Corporation of America, said the cooperative spirit was displayed by public officials, labor leaders, business and industrial neighbors and state residents.

The firm selected Canonsburg as the site of a four million dollar plant. The second plant, costing two millions, is nearing completion near Wilkes-Barre.

Used By Company

Caplan told the fourth annual Pennsylvania Industrial Development Clinic Monday that his company used these seven basic guides in selecting the two plant sites:

1. Proper educational, recreational and living facilities to attract engineers to the area.
2. A good labor supply, including women "who have proven time and again more stable on certain types of jobs and frequently are more dextrous."
3. Transportation facilities.
4. Adequate water and electric power.
5. Evidence that the community will welcome the new plant.
6. Intelligent and understanding assistance in the financial aspects of building a new facility.
7. Assurance of a close and continuing working relationship between the company and civic, labor and governmental groups.

The clinic was inaugurated in 1966 after the state set up a program for assisting local areas overcome unemployment problems through the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority.

Medical Group Begins Program

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pennsylvania Medical Society says it has launched a new medical service program intended to curb what it calls illegal and unethical practices by doctors and hospitals.

Dr. W. Benson Harer of Upper Darby told a news conference Monday the main part of the program calls for the reviewing of complaints involving excessive and prolonged hospital stays.

Most Wanted Nazi Seized In Israel, Held For Trial

JERUSALEM, Israel Sector (AP)—Adolf Eichmann, the most wanted Nazi war criminal still at large, has been captured and will stand trial in Israel, Premier David Ben-Gurion announced Monday.

Ben-Gurion charged in the Knesset (Parliament) that Eichmann and other Nazi leaders were responsible for "the extermination of six million Jews of Europe."

The Premier told the startled Knesset—which had no previous inkling the long manhunt was over—that Eichmann—now 54—had recently been seized by Israeli security forces.

"Adolf Eichmann is already under arrest in Israel," Ben-Gurion said, "and will shortly be placed on trial in Israel under terms of Israel's law for the trial of Nazis and their collaborators."

The Premier gave no details of the arrest of the man who was a top aide of Heinrich Himmler, boss of the dread Nazi secret police or Gestapo.

Eichmann vanished from sight in the days when Hitler's Reich was crumbling under Allied blows. He was reported thereafter in several Latin-American countries, in Australia, in Switzerland and last October in Kuwait, the British protectorate in the Middle East. The British hunted for him in vain.

West Germany also wanted him. A warrant for murder had been circulated for Eichmann for years. Last year, German authorities dealing with war crimes got over the hurdle he might be in Israel and asked Israeli officials to look for him.

Born in Germany, Eichmann moved to Austria and there joined the SS in 1932, six years before the Nazis took over the country. He supervised the deportation of Jews from Austria and Czechoslovakia before the Nazis entrusted him with his biggest job.

In 1941 he was named head of an office in the state security service charged with "the solution of the Jewish question"—the liquidation of millions of Jews.

Golden Deeds Award Goes To Wyckoff

"ERNEST Wyckoff is not a typical American, but is what the typical American should be," Arlington W. Williams said last night during the Golden Deeds award presentation held at Mountain Lake House.

Williams, main speaker for the Exchange Club's annual fete honoring a member of the twin-communities for the contributions made over the years, said Wyckoff kept alive the purpose of life by pouring out his life for others.

"Ernest H. Wyckoff has no other purpose in life than doing for others," the attorney said. Williams described Wyckoff as assuming wholeheartedly the responsibilities of citizenship in this nation today.

Sense of Concern

While the nation now stands among the wealthiest and strongest, Williams said, it is up to the rank and file to have integrity and a sense of concern for their fellowman, and he pictured Wyckoff as having such a sense of responsibility.

"We pause now in our busy work to honor one who has so exemplified the true American spirit, and this person is Ernest Wyckoff," Williams said.

Tracing the honored guest's early years, Williams said he was educated at Blair Academy, where he met Mrs. Wyckoff, and then graduated from Princeton.

Giving up his early desire to be a physician, Williams said Wyckoff went into merchandising in the store operated by his family since 1875. This was in 1912, Williams said.

"Ernest Wyckoff now looks upon the members of the staff of the store as adopted children," Williams said.

Citing his contributions to the community, Williams spoke of the highlights.

Wyckoff has been chairman of the Building Committee for the YMCA, president of the Board of Directors for the Laurel Manor Home for the Aged, head of the Monroe County Clothing Assn. to help needy children, and Williams added that there is hardly an organization for good in the community which has not felt the help of Ernest Wyckoff.

The presentation of the Citation of Honor was made by Horace Walters, chairman of the Golden Deeds Award Committee of the Exchange Club, while the presentation of the honorary award was made by Edgar J. Rau, governor of District 4 of the State Exchange Clubs.

Attending were dignitaries from all parts of the county.

Previous honorees of the Golden Deeds were also present and were introduced.

The invocation and benediction were given by Rev. Harold C. Eaton.

Presiding at the dinner was Claude E. Heller, of the Exchange Club. The toastmaster was Gilbert Dunning.

But Fred's again in the running for best musical-variety performance, competing with Harry Belafonte and Dinah Shore.

"Another Evening With Fred Astaire" also drew a nomination as best variety program. It will be in a race with the Dinah Shore Show, Fabulous Fifties, Garry Moore Show and Tonight with Belafonte.

In reducing the number of categories, the Academy has created the somewhat illogical competition of single specials against weekly shows. Another unusual race is in the best series actor division. It is a three-way affair between Westerner Richard Boone (Have Gun, Will Travel), sleuth Raymond Burr (Perry Mason) and crime-buster Robert Stack (The Untouchables).

The best series actress contest demonstrates TV's reliance on standard movie names. The competitors: Donna Reed, Jane Wyatt (Father Knows Best) and Loretta Young.

The awards will be handed out on an NBC special June 20. Other major nominations follow:

Outstanding achievement in humor: Art Carney Special-VIP; Danny Thomas Show; Father Knows Best; Jack Benny Show; Red Skelton Show.

Outstanding achievement in children's programming: Captain Kangaroo; Huckleberry Hound; Lassie; Quick Draw McGraw; Watch Mr. Wizard.

Outstanding achievement in music: Bell Telephone Hour; Green Pastures; Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic; Music of Gershwin-Bell Telephone Hour; Young People's Concerts—Leonard Bernstein.

Outstanding single performance by an actor: Lee J. Cobb—Project Immortality; Alec Guinness—The Wicked Scheme of Jebel Deek; Laurence Olivier—The Moon and Sixpence.

Outstanding single performance by an actress: Ingrid Bergman—The Turn of the Screw; Julie Harris—Ethan Frome; Theresa Wright—Margaret Bourke-White Story; Brock Sunday Showcases.

Quakes, Tidal Waves

Report Hundreds Killed

By The Associated Press

GIANT tidal waves generated by Chilean earthquakes smashed at four continents around the Pacific Monday leaving widespread death and destruction.

A 24-foot wave swept a reported 130 persons to their death when it surged over La Arena, a small village in South Chile. In Japan, an unconfirmed report said 150 persons were killed in the village of Memoishi-Machi by a wave 32 feet high.

Twenty-seven persons were killed by a wave in Hilo, Hawaii's second largest city. Dozens of others were missing or injured and damage was expected to exceed 25 million dollars.

A 14 to 15-foot waved roll against Montague Island near Cordova, Alaska, without causing injuries or damage. New Zealand's east coast was swept by waves and small boats were carried away and capsized.

A series of waves struck Japan at dawn without warning along hundreds of miles of Pacific coastline. Tokyo and Yokohama, sheltered in Tokyo Bay, were spared direct blows from the tidal phenomena.

But the waves lashed across the northern 200 miles of Honshu's coast. Villages there became a tangled mass of overturned buildings, debris and ships washed ashore.

Four great tidal waves bore down on Hawaii. One eyewitness said the waves sounded like "the roar of a freight train" as the sea charged in on the islands.

Across the Pacific, the California coast was hit from Los Angeles to the Oregon border. Three persons were reported injured at Crescent City in northern California as a wave pushed water for three blocks into the town.

Flood-like currents swept back and forth in the Los Angeles-Long Beach area, tearing docks loose and sending them drifting aimlessly with as many as 80 boats tied to them. The harbor was a scene of confusion as boats ranging from 14-foot outboards to luxury yachts went astray.

San Diego Harbor also suffered extensive damage and ferry service was knocked out. San Francisco escaped major damage although the tidal swell raised the golden Gate water level a foot.

Claims Reds Want Double Standard

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States accused the Soviet Union Monday night of maintaining a vast spy network while trying to curb U.S. efforts to guard against surprise Communist attack.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge made the charge in the U.N. Security Council.

He was replying to a demand from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that the United States be condemned as an aggressor for aerial spying on Soviet territory. Gromyko warned that such action ran the risk of kindling the flames of World War III.

Unless immediate action is taken by the U.N., Gromyko asserted, "grave consequences" could result.

Lodge said that the Soviets have thousands of spies everywhere, and that since the death of Stalin 360 actually had been convicted in the free world.

"If it ever should be accepted that the Soviet Union can maintain a double standard while they have thousands of spies everywhere... then the free world would surely be in peculiar danger," Lodge asserted.

He spoke for only 15 minutes in comparison to an hour-long speech by Gromyko. The galleries in the Council chamber were jammed with both diplomats and ordinary spectators.

Assails Eisenhower

Gromyko denounced President Eisenhower and accused the United States of perfidy comparable to that of Japanese diplomats in Washington just prior to the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

He called on the Council not only to condemn the United States as an aggressor for aerial spying, but also to request that the United States put an end to such flights. But Lodge denied that the United States had committed any aggressive acts "against the Soviet Union or any other country, either through its Air Force or through any other agency of the U.S. government."

Lodge named a dozen spies he said were arrested in the United States since the death of Stalin. He said the United States in addition to naming spies could also bring up the presence of a Soviet vessel off Long Island's Montauk Point a few weeks ago that was "deliberately interfering with operations of the U.S. Navy."

No Reason To Complain

He made these additional points: 1. The United States has suspended spy flights similar to the U2 spy plane downed over the Soviet Union last May 1 and the free world could only speculate why the Soviet Union sought to bring up the matter in the United Nations.

2. The United States is prepared to negotiate an open sides treaty with the Soviet Union that would obviate forever any need for attempts at aerial espionage by any nation.

"At an appropriate time we intend to make proposals to get at the heart of the matter and we hope our proposals will prove constructive," he added.

He denied the Soviet charges as fallacious and said the United States was glad of the chance to air the issues involved in the Council.

Diplomats said there was virtually no chance of the Soviet Union getting a resolution condemning the United States through the council.

In an attempt to ease tension in the wake of the sharp U.S.-Soviet exchange, four of the smaller nations on the council introduced a resolution calling for early resumption of East-West negotiations on disarmament and other big issues.

The resolution was worked out on the initiative of Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon, president of the council for May. He opened the meeting with a plea that the council take up the issues in an atmosphere of "calm, detachment, restraint and dignity." Argentina, Ecuador, and Tunisia joined Ceylon in the move.

It noted with regret that the world's hopes had been dashed for a successful summit meeting in Paris. It said it is now necessary to "make every effort to restore and strengthen international goodwill and confidence."

Minimum Pay For Pastors Now $4,500

BUCK HILL FALLS—A new minimum salary for Pennsylvania Lutheran Ministers was adopted yesterday at the first business session of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania at its annual four-day convention here.

The proposal, offered by the committee of deans, was passed without dissenting vote. It calls for a minimum salary of $4,500 for pastors, plus car allowances, housing, all utilities, participation in the pension plan and hospitalization, with consideration of an annual increase to meet changing standards.

Dr. Henry Bagger, Philadelphia, suggested that the proposal's word "move toward minimum" meant "advance."

Dr. C. M. Cooper, president of the synod, said, "This means about $450 over present standards, with allowances."

Dr. Claude Shick, secretary, reported to clergy, officers, visitors and lay delegates from 542 congregations that the average per capita expenditures in the United Lutheran Church was $91.98, while for the Pennsylvania Ministerium it was $73.25.

He presented a recommendation calling for the termination of the office of synodical reader. The matter was included in a report by a committee of deans.

The convention approved a motion that each congregation may decide if a layman may supply its pulpit in the case of an emergency.

See Goal Reached

In his annual report, Dr. Cooper said, "There is hope that the synod will raise $2,398,000 toward the 1960 goal of $3,220,000. Although this estimated total falls short of the budget approved last year it represented a 25 per cent increase or about half a million dollars over last year's receipts."

He also noted that appeals for Muhlenberg College and Germantown Home for the Aged were over-subscribed.

Fred Astaire Heads Emmy Award Nominees

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will it be another year with Emmy for Fred Astaire? That possibility appeared Monday with the nominations for the 1959-60 TV Academy Awards.

Last year, "An Evening With Fred Astaire" danced off with nine gold statuettes in various divisions. He can't repeat that record because the Emmy categories have been pared.

But Fred's again in the running for best musical-variety performance, competing with Harry Belafonte and Dinah Shore.

"Another Evening With Fred Astaire" also drew a nomination as best variety program. It will be in a race with the Dinah Shore Show, Fabulous Fifties, Garry Moore Show and Tonight with Belafonte.

Newsmen Show Dissatisfaction

UNIVERSITY PARK, (AP) — The president of the Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents Assn. says a survey of its members showed that most capitol newsmen are dissatisfied with the Lawrence Administration's press relations.

Duke Kaminski, correspondent for the Philadelphia Bulletin in Harrisburg, reported on the survey Saturday to newspapermen attending the closing session of the annual Pennsylvania Press Conference.

He said eight members of the 14-man capitol press corps thought it was tougher to get news from the present administration than previous ones. Three saw no difference and one said the present set-up is better than at any time.

Dear Abby

Charity Begins At Home

Dear Abby: My husband's lodge membership is breaking up my marriage. He has held every office—local, district, and now he is a state officer. He has become a ladies' man behind my back and spends too many nights attending meetings, going to dinners and getting in at all hours.

He receives no money for all this gallivanting and everywhere he goes someone hits him for raffle tickets and donations, and since he acts like a big shot he can't say no.

I can't take it any more and am seriously considering divorce. I think every man should have a little outside activity, but when it's overdone like this what's the answer?

LODGE WIDOW

Dear Lodge Widow: A husband who is happy at home doesn't seize every opportunity to run away from it. Your problem is not what's on the "outside" but what is lacking on the inside.

Under the cinders, the home fires could still be burning. Shake your grates and revive the live coals. Get a new hairdo and a new outfit. Listen to his troubles, but don't tell him yours. Let him know that there is nothing on the outside worth putting his hat on for — and he'll stay home.

Dear Abby: I am over 21 and have never been married. I own my own business. I have a young woman working in my office who is a dead ringer for Marilyn Monroe. I can't keep my mind on my work when she is around. Have you any practical suggestions?

BARRY
Dear Barry: Either fire her or marry her.

Dear Abby: Our problem is our son He is 32, a college grad, good-looking (maybe too good-looking) and a bachelor. He lives at home. He recently took a job with a big concern. Lately he has been getting calls at all hours of the night. When he gets a call he showers, shaves, dresses and drives off without regard to the hour.

When his father questioned him, he admitted he was seeing his boss' wife. He says she is fat, 40 and means nothing to him. How do you convince a 32-year-old boy that this is dangerous? He says he knows what he's doing and this is one way of getting ahead.

MRS. S.
Dear Mrs. S.: This may be one way of "getting ahead"—but it is also a way of getting a headstone. A 32-year-old is a man, not a boy. And if he doesn't know that his behavior is immoral, illegal and just plain stupid, someone ought to remind him.

Dear Abby: I would like to add my comment about the "respectable business man" who doesn't appreciate his wife's efforts to guard his reputation. He should know that no respectable married man rides alone in a car with any woman.

Truman Outs Adlai Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said he concluded in 1956 that Adlai E. Stevenson would be "ineffectual as a president" because of indecisiveness.

Truman, writing in Look magazine, said he also felt Stevenson was "uncertain of himself and remote from the people."

Stevenson, he said further, brought about a period of "confusion, drift and factionalism" in the Democratic party by not exercising party leadership after his 1952 defeat by Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He also said Stevenson's 1952 campaign was not conducted on the Democratic administration record and cost the party three or four million votes.

Supported Harriman
In 1956 Truman supported the then Gov. W. Averell Harriman of New York for the Democratic presidential nomination. He has come out this year for Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Stevenson, the party's nominee in both 1952 and 1956, has said he is not a candidate for the nomination this year but has left the door open to acceptance if it is offered.

Stevenson, in New York over the weekend, said he had not seen the Truman article and would not

Marlene Falls From Stage

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — Marlene Dietrich fell four feet off the stage last night during a performance in her 12-show tour of West Germany.

She was reported at first to have suffered a painful arm injury, but when a doctor rushed to the theater, she sent him away without permitting him to examine her.

Miss Dietrich, 56, was moving toward the wings during her performance when she took a step too far forward on the unfamiliar stage in Wiesbaden's Rhein-Main-Hall. When she started to fall, spectators in the front row rushed forward and apparently managed to break the tumble. She went on with the show a few minutes later.

County Tied Legally On Flood Aid

MONROE County Commissioners said yesterday their hands were tied legally insofar as extending any aid to the persons inundated by water on the county side of the Lehigh River was concerned.

Chairman John Lesoiné said the bridge in question was built with private funds many years ago, and has never been considered to be a responsibility of the county.

The area in question is located near Ellis Corners, near the Lackawanna County line, about 12 miles from Mt. Pocono.

No Answer
On May 22, 1959, Monroe County Commissioners wrote to the Lackawanna Commissioners asking if they would check into the matter, following the receipt of a petition signed by 23 residents of that area.

However, no word was ever received from the Lackawanna officials.

During their meeting yesterday, the Commissioners announced the Courthouse would be closed Monday, May 30, which is Memorial Day, but the building will be open Saturday, May 28.

Severe Tax Bite

We are indebted to Tax Foundation Inc. for information showing that government — local, state and federal — now takes one out of every four dollars of income in the great majority of American families.

The foundation conducted a new study of the taxes imposed on the nation's wage earners last year and came up with some revealing figures.

Besides pointing out that governments collected 125 billion dollars from American taxpayers in 1959, the study disclosed that more than four out of five families in the country with annual income between $2,000 and $15,000 pay about 70 percent of the total tax bill.

These people are taxed at just about the same effective rate, approximately 25 percent of their total incomes. Hidden and indirect taxes are included in this estimate.

But from that point upward, the "tax bite" goes deeper and deeper. For those who make above $15,000 a year, there is a sharp increase to 36 percent and up. It rises above 90 percent for the topmost bracket.

All this indicates the importance of keeping a close surveillance on government expenditures. Every dollar that is disbursed by government — federal, state or local — is a tax dollar, and it must come ultimately from the pockets of taxpayers and consumers of goods and services.

Under the tax burdens we now bear, it behooves us to insist that our governing bodies make only needful disbursements.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Polls Made To Order

Elmo Roper, a bona fide pioneer in the often questioned art of opinion polling, fears that some others in the trade have become political propagandists, working for candidates instead of trying to tell the truth.

They are "leaking" alleged findings to "frighten some people into not running for office and to try to frighten others into climbing into somebody's bandwagon." He fears a doctoring of polls to sway voters in favor of candidates, and he says "a storm is brewing up."

Polls of various kinds have been questioned as to their adequacy. It has been suggested that no matter how objectively conducted, they may be misleading.

Yet they are well-nigh irresistible to politicians who, like horse-players, hunger for a tip on a "sure thing." To most people they probably only mean a bit of extra material for political conversations.

But if they ever are shown to be dishonest, there will indeed be a storm. The offense would be only one remove from tampering with the ballot box.

—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Behind Times

Politicians usually regard themselves as very practical. This obviously cannot be so, for one of these creature-like creatures must be defeated at each election. It can then be reasoned that the one who is out is the one who knows less than the one who gets in. Actually no such clear-cut conclusion can be reached. Politicians guess, the same as you and I.

This is a curious country because the population is in a constant state of flux. It was not so many years ago that the number of Americans who attended college was few. Colleges were comparatively costly. Graduate schools were not too available in this country. Those who sought higher education went to Europe, principally to Germany. In fact, our system of higher education was modeled on the German rather than the British universities. Today, although some of our colleges are not superior to earlier high schools, it is true that millions of young people attend colleges of some kind. They learn how to read and if they are over-majorized, they nevertheless have had some contact with ideas.

Politicians do not find it so easy to deal with the current crop of young people. Some of them, like the Beatniks, may look queer and even have funny ideas, but they can, if they want to, read. This makes it very tough for the practical politicians.

Look at the ages of the current breed of Presidential candidates: Kennedy, 42; Nixon, 47; Johnson, 51; Symington, 58. These are comparatively young men, younger than candidates usually have been, although Theodore Roosevelt was only 42 years old when he became President.

Candidates for public office have to speak the language of their own generation. The brassy, shouting, boy-from-the-log cabin candidate has nothing to say to the current generation. Hubert Humphrey talked about what might be called bread-and-butter questions and in an era of inflation, he sounded like William Jennings Bryan berating William McKinley.

It had no meaning against John Kennedy who spoke a Harvard broad A and looked literate. Humphrey had once been a university professor, come to Earth and gone liberal. So what? The youngsters know lots of professors and many are squares.

Also the politician has to note the rise in white collar workers. Their income amounts to 53.4 per cent of all income. They own lots of small houses all over the place. They have pretty wives who dress up and like good things.

An astonishingly large number of these workers are professionals, chemists, physicists, biologists, technicians of various kinds, accountants, and all sorts of specialists. Most of these are not only college graduates; many have at least an M.A.

They are employed in every growing industry and hit the time clock the same as any other worker but they have the advantage of being specialists. Actually, there is always a shortage of top white collar workers, from presidents of corporations down to first-rate stenographers.

The politician has a hard time with this new element. Adlai Stevenson thought in two campaigns that he had these college-trained voters. He talks their language and he has advertised himself as an intellectual rather than a politician, but twice, he was defeated.

Whatever it was, Stevenson has never been able to win as much popularity among this element in our population as he had expected. Stevenson, in fact, is a political phenomenon. Practically unknown, he became Governor of Illinois. The politicians permitted him to run for the Presidency during two campaigns when no Democrat could have been elected.

This gave Stevenson stature, but he hardly did much about it. He saw John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson garner the delegates to the 1960 Convention, but he went travelling in South America, whence little news came from him.

When the Humphrey effort failed and he withdrew, Stevenson became more active, perhaps hopeful to benefit by a transfer of A.D.A. influence from Humphrey to Stevenson. But how many delegates did Humphrey garner? Too few to matter.

The white collar element does not seem to turn to a political oddity for leadership. It is rather establishing a new type of middle class — not an employing class, but intellectuals who work not so much in schools and colleges but in industry and government. This change in population characteristics cannot be ignored in this campaign.

Ice Built For Two

Mrs. Edward G. Kenney has become French all over again. The Stroudsburg woman, a resident of Club Court, returned recently from a visit to her native New York and re-established the speaking vocabulary of the nation headed by Gen. Charles DeGaulle.

Mrs. Kenney penned a short missive to yours truly. However, being of the non-educated class in this language we have to send the letter out to an expert for deciphering.

Sincerely, though, Mrs. Kenney would like to get a French group started in the Stroudsburgs. Any takers?

Did you know there are a lot of John F. Kennedy buttons showing up in Monroe County?

Kennedy is the Massachusetts senator who is aspiring for the presidency on the Democratic ticket.

As all know the youngish man from the Bay State has entrenched himself in Democratic hearts with victories in primaries thus far.

With the Kennedy buttons about and the announced set up of a Vice President Richard M. Nixon headquarters here it appears the battle lines are drawn for a Kennedy and Nixon duel to succeed President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The popularity of the late Archie Rundle was pinpointed when more than 500 persons attended his viewing at the Daniel Warner Funeral Home, Saturday.

It also was further shown when hundreds more attended the assistant Stroudsburg fire chief's funeral at the Stroudsburg Methodist Church Sunday.

Bill Jones, the transplanted Blakely, Pa., native who now resides in Cherry Valley, is decrying the poor weather we were having lately.

Bill, who has trouble with his bones during the dry spell, had his crippling troubles because of the dampness about us.

However, the happy fellow from the Valley, never complains a bit over a misfortune which of us would be uttering undesirable oaths daily.

The Pennsylvania Story

Hold-Out Strategy

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Concern is growing among Democrats throughout Pennsylvania over Governor Lawrence's insistence that the Keystone state delegation remain uncommitted in its presidential candidate preference.

Young Sen. John F. Kennedy's obviously now successful campaign "pulls" not only in Pennsylvania during the April 26 primary, but in other states such as West Virginia and Maryland where he has polled heavily in later contests has produced a rumbling move of "get on the bandwagon," as opposed to the Lawrence hold-out strategy.

Around Capitol Hill the conviction is strong that had the no-commitment stand been taken by virtually any person other than veteran old politician David Lawrence, it would have been washed out by now. The stand-out fact is that at the moment at least, most key leaders within the Democratic Party in the Keystone State are willing to go along on the theory that the veteran old pro who has so successfully weathered political storms in the past is in better position to call the shots.

While this is the generally accepted stand among party old pros there is still a ranking of doubt over the propriety of adhering so strongly to this course — the fear of getting aboard the bandwagon too late an ever-present fear.

The swing toward Kennedy unquestionably has been growing in Democratic ranks not only in this state but else. At this point it is quakingly conceded that he probably will become the Democratic candidate.

Under this head of steam — which of course could completely blow off at convention time in the critical showdown — there are those among the donkey riders who fear Pennsylvania's ultimate support and endorsement will come too late.

Pennsylvania Democrats this year are doubly anxious to live up to the name of "Keystone State" — that is, become one of the keystone states in swinging the ultimate presidential candidate.

Too late an endorsement of course would mean loss of this punch — and most certainly it could happen that way. It has in the past on both the Democratic and Republican sides.

On the roll call schedule at the nominating convention, Pennsylvania is fairly well down the list. On the critical ballot, by the time the roll call comes to Pennsylvania the decision as to the candidate could well have been made — as it has oftentimes.

There are those who recall only too vividly during the past 1956 campaign that it was actually early in the campaign that then Governor Leader plumped hard for aspiring and ultimate candidate Adlai Stevenson.

Much of the credit for his gaining the nomination was handed to Pennsylvania. Mr. Stevenson lost in the showdown with Mr. Eisenhower, of course, but had he won, Pennsylvania Democrats undoubtedly would have been riding exceptionally high.

It is this over which those who question the wisdom of the Lawrence stand on non-commitment are twitchy and edgy. Will Pennsylvania donkey riders lose their shirts on the stand assumed by Mr. Lawrence.

For the moment they are content — reluctantly — to let the Governor carry the ball and abide by his strategy. Chances are good though that considerably before the convention, Mr. Lawrence may be prevailed upon to change his stand. The netting concern is there.

Everyone Has An Opinion

By J. M. Roberts

All the soft pedaling to the contrary, the great debate over U2 and symmetry has been going on at the grass roots for nearly three weeks and it was obvious the politicians would have to get into it.

It's the first issue in years where everybody over the age of 10 has an opinion, usually violent.

Now we have James A. Farley utterly attacking the titular head of the Democratic party he loves so well, because Adlai E. Stevenson attacked the Republican President.

And Lyndon B. Johnson, who will go to the Democratic convention with a flock of votes for the presidential nomination, still is trying to hold down the noise.

The Democrats show by their statements that they have a big issue in hand but don't know what to do with it.

The Republicans, with their appeals for unity, can bank on a great popular reverence for the President, but automati-

The Allen-Scott Report

Pilot's Fate Questioned

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — The dean of the Senate Republicans is putting some blunt questions up to President Eisenhower on exactly what is being done in the half of U-2 plane pilot Francis Powers.

Sen. Styles Bridges, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, in a personal conference expressly arranged for this purpose with the President, is asking:

(1) Whether anything is known regarding Powers' whereabouts in Russia; his condition and the treatment he is receiving.

(2) What measures are being taken for his defense in the event he is tried, as Premier Khrushchev has repeatedly threatened.

(3) If overtures are being made to secure Powers' release by exchanging him for imprisoned Red spies, notably Intelligence Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel. Last week the Supreme Court rejected another appeal from his 30-year sentence.

(4) An explanation of the contradictory statements by top Administration officials concerning Powers' reputed "confession." George Allen, director of Voice of America, asserted in an address that Powers had been "instructed" to admit his espionage mission.

But exactly the opposite was said by Secretary Herter and Central Intelligence Director Allen Dulles in a private conference with congressional leaders. They were flatly told that U-2 plane pilots were not supposed to reveal the purpose of their flights.

Gravely concerned over these matters, Sen. Bridges is making no bones of his intention to have no words in discussing them with the President.

The dean of the Senate Republicans has already done that at one Policy Committee meeting. He sharply warned his colleagues, "Unless we do our utmost for Powers, the Democrats are certain to make a very embarrassing campaign issue of this."

Since this admonition, Bridges has learned the Democrats are getting set to do just that.

Rep. Edna Kuhl (D., N.Y.), chairman of a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, has been authorized to investigate administration policies regarding Russia and the satellites.

Foremost among Mrs. Kelly's objectives is a probe of "President Eisenhower's personal diplomacy with Premier Khrushchev."

Secretary Herter is slated to be the first witness. He will be questioned particularly about reputed "understandings" reached at Camp David, and the series of letters exchanged by the President and Khrushchev.

Herter also will be interrogated on what is being done for Powers.

New U-2 Flights — The Navy is going to see whether U-2 high-altitude jet reconnaissance planes can be operated from aircraft carriers. If test flights prove that is feasible, the capabilities of these long-range planes will be greatly expanded, as the carriers would eliminate the need for land bases.

U-2s could fly reconnaissance missions all over the world without implicating other countries — as in the Powers incident.

Six other U-2 pilots are still in Europe. Like Powers, none of them has had espionage training. They were employed primarily because of their skill as high-altitude pilots willing to undertake hazardous missions.

Sen. Bridges has been authoritatively informed that the so-called "suicide kit" the Russians claim they found on Powers is actually a "survivor's kit" the GSS provided its agents in World War II. Also that the reputed "poison needle" is really a hypodermic to relieve pain in the event of injury.

Summit Casualties — One backstage problem left by the collapse of the summit conference is what to do with that hydrojet cabin cruiser the President was going to give Khrushchev as a gift while in Russia.

The boat was shipped to Moscow last month, and is now stored on a trailer in the garage of the American embassy. One State Department solution is that the speedy and handsome cabin cruiser be turned over to Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson for trips by him and his staff on the Moscow River this summer.

Since the start of the U-2 furor, there have been two attempts to sabotage Russian missile bases in East Germany. A bomb was exploded in the compound of the missile base at Goerlitz, near the Czech border, and another at the Kuestrin base, near the Polish border.

According to Intelligence, seven Soviet soldiers were killed in the Goerlitz explosion, and power and communication lines were severely damaged at Kuestrin.

Russia has a number of missile sites in Poland, Czechoslovakia and East Germany. These bases are equipped with T-2 and T-4 intermediate ballistic missiles with ranges of 1,000 to 1,600 miles.

This is not merely a debate over responsibility for past mistakes and the degree of error.

The chairmen of several congressional committees want to get in their word. Political expediency will be mixed with sincere efforts to plug liaison gaps in the government structure, and some old grudges will be at work.

In the long run, specific events of the past are likely to be overshadowed by consideration of the place and function of the Central Intelligence Agency, and whether it could be better integrated with the administrative and legislative institutions of the government without impairing its efficiency.

It has not yet been shown publicly that there was lack of liaison between the CIA and the State Department, but some people are strongly suspicious. If there was such a lack, and the agency could produce what the world most fears, war by mistake, the demand for a new system of checks will be insistent.

Oh, it's really nothing, dear. I was in a car accident and some silly man is suing us for a million dollars.

But exactly the opposite was said by Secretary Herter and Central Intelligence Director Allen Dulles in a private conference with congressional leaders. They were flatly told that U-2 plane pilots were not supposed to reveal the purpose of their flights.

Gravely concerned over these matters, Sen. Bridges is making no bones of his intention to have no words in discussing them with the President.

The dean of the Senate Republicans has already done that at one Policy Committee meeting. He sharply warned his colleagues, "Unless we do our utmost for Powers, the Democrats are certain to make a very embarrassing campaign issue of this."

Since this admonition, Bridges has learned the Democrats are getting set to do just that.

Rep. Edna Kuhl (D., N.Y.), chairman of a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, has been authorized to investigate administration policies regarding Russia and the satellites.

Foremost among Mrs. Kelly's objectives is a probe of "President Eisenhower's personal diplomacy with Premier Khrushchev."

Secretary Herter is slated to be the first witness. He will be questioned particularly about reputed "understandings" reached at Camp David, and the series of letters exchanged by the President and Khrushchev.

Herter also will be interrogated on what is being done for Powers.

New U-2 Flights — The Navy is going to see whether U-2 high-altitude jet reconnaissance planes can be operated from aircraft carriers. If test flights prove that is feasible, the capabilities of these long-range planes will be greatly expanded, as the carriers would eliminate the need for land bases.

U-2s could fly reconnaissance missions all over the world without implicating other countries — as in the Powers incident.

Six other U-2 pilots are still in Europe. Like Powers, none of them has had espionage training. They were employed primarily because of their skill as high-altitude pilots willing to undertake hazardous missions.

Sen. Bridges has been authoritatively informed that the so-called "suicide kit" the Russians claim they found on Powers is actually a "survivor's kit" the GSS provided its agents in World War II. Also that the reputed "poison needle" is really a hypodermic to relieve pain in the event of injury.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Damp elephants do smell and so do damp children. Mac assured us, but he also added that everybody was having a wonderful time at the circus. In fact, from his tone I should judge he'd like to have gone to the evening show, too.

Of course there's no rule that says "Adults must be accompanied by children" — to the circus, to the school entertainment, to the ballet recital, or the Little League games. As a matter of fact a lot of adults whose children are grown or who never had children would enjoy many of them purely on their merits.

But in the involved life we lead, we sort of balk against doing anything we aren't duty-bound to do. Unless the school entertainment involves our own children, we pay no attention, no matter how many rave reviews it gets, no matter how many posters or ketchup-bottle collars the kids put out.

No matter how prominent the speaker at the college assemblies, open to all without charge, we never think of going, even if it might be something we are really interested in.

Watch people reading the paper. Their first interest is in the story they themselves know something about: the fire next door, the accident they saw, the meeting they attended. The next is in what has happened to people they know. And the rest can wait, no matter how important.

And the tidal wave in Hawaii for instance gets no more than a glance unless you are one of the people who know that Nancy May and Dick and Sally Hintze are living there.

So I would guess that the only way national or international issues, politics, or welfare drives can really become matters of general interest is that somewhere along the line everybody becomes convinced that they have a personal stake in the outcome.

Mineola Grange Discusses Corporate Farms Danger

Brodheadsville — The problem of corporate farms as they affect community life compared to the independent, home-owning farmers was discussed at length at the meeting of Mineola Grange 1453 held at the West End Firehall with Grange Master Richard Seidoff in charge.

Legislative chairman, Peter Lambert presented the contents of bills pending in Congress pertaining to all Grange members.

The matter of corporate farms came up in a letter from California State Grange Master to a member of the U. S. Senate. In 30 years, he warned, the growth of corporate farms could create a replica of the feudal system in Europe.

The corporate farms are cutting a large segment of the buying power and is a hindrance to prosperity, the letter charged.

The home economics chairman read the official rules of the National Grange Baking Contest. The Mineola Grange will hold its contest at the meeting on June 3 when members are asked to bring their entries. Any questions about rules can be answered by calling Evelyn Seidoff, Hannah Kresge or Eva Greenamoyer.

Fire Co. Aux. Gives $100 To Firemen

Del. Water Gap — The women of the Fire Aux. voted at the May meeting held at the home of Mrs. Donald Nase to give $100 to the Chemical Hose Co. of Water Gap again and to put another $100 in the Building & Loan Co.

With Mrs. Nelson Lightner, Sr. presiding, reports were received of the tidy sum earned by the recent roast beef supper; of the last successful square dance; and of the cards mailed out to friends.

The refreshment stand committee for the June motor boat regatta — Mrs. Clifford Hauser, Mrs. H. J. LaBar, Mrs. Donald Nase, and Mrs. Lightner — completed plans for their work.

It was reported that over 50 persons attended the May 9 covered dish supper in honor of the firemen and their wives.

Mrs. Nase served refreshments to her guests: Mrs. Stephen Matos, Mrs. C. B. Rosenkrans, Mrs. Harry Buzzard, Mrs. Clifford Hauser, Mrs. H. J. LaBar, Mrs. D. Runyan, Mrs. Lewis Ace, Mrs. P. J. Rockefeller, Mrs. Willard Kitchen, Mrs. Harold Crossdale and Mrs. Lightner.

Wednesday, May 25 DeMolay Mothers, YMCA, 8 p.m. United Lutheran Men, Grace Lutheran Church, supper meeting, 6:15 p.m. Auction Sale, E. S. Elementary PTA at gym.

Thursday, May 26 Book Club at home of Mrs. Robert Shively.

Games, party decorations, favors and balloons were enjoyed. Refreshments were served buffet style. Two birthday cakes had been baked by his grandmother, Mrs. Malvin LaBar.

Parents were Mark and Eddie Fuhrer, Martha Ellen Nauman, Vicki Lynn Dailey, and Bradley's younger brother, Jason Wade.

Adults present were Mr. and Mrs. Malvin LaBar; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dailey, paternal uncle and aunt; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nauman, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fuhrer, Miss Velma Lesoine and Bruce Hoffman.

Gifts were also sent by paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Dailey Sr.

My experience with fashion shows has taught me that actors and actresses are right when they say, "Heaven spare me doing a scene with a child." A child ALWAYS steals the show. I recall, for instance, one evening when we had an adorable youngster modeling a cute dress, and suffering an acute case of stage fright. The only way to coax her to the stage was by allowing her to stand on my lap as she displayed her finery. It was one of the few times I ever did commentary seated . . . and the youngster enjoyed her stance on my knees so well she proceeded to climb up on me at each subsequent appearance. The audience loved it—and so did I, as a matter of fact. But I came away bearing the dusty tracks of two little feet.

Another time one of our little boy models was so nonchalant about the whole thing he both literally and figuratively brought down the house. Instead of walking back and forth on stage, he leaned up against a "marble pillar" that was made of something like cardboard. Away he—and the scenery—went. We opened that show with a bang, no doubt about it—but the audience was delighted.

They were delighted too by another child—a little girl with big bright eyes and bobbing curls—who was charmed with her appearance in a full skirted, wide colored Kate Greenaway dress. After preening a few times across the stage, she was just ready to depart when she remembered another item of apparel she was wearing. Hurrying up to the footlights, she announced firmly "I have new panties too" — and proved it, by raising both skirt and crinoline well above her head. After that, I am sure the audience neither heard nor saw anything else that happened. I personally all but strangled on controlled laughter.

But even the most uninhibited, lovely child, would have a difficult time stealing the spotlight from Blanche Mackey of our major appliance department. Blannie has a sense of fun that is contagious, and will do almost anything for a laugh. She was in her glory this past Friday when, at 8:15, she was on hand to welcome all incoming employees and early customers, wearing a Playtex girdle, and some well placed flowers, over a pair of black leotards. She was "Miss Playtex of 1960," as her glittering ribbon announced, and having a wonderful time inaugurating Playtex Week here at Wyckoff's.

Playtex, as you know, is a great favorite with women everywhere, and Fred Tischler, the company's representative, tells me sales figures are going up, up, UP, as customers become increasingly aware of the comfort of Playtex . . . the flattery of Playtex . . . and the economy of Playtex. In his appearance with Betty Colvin, corset buyer, on our Wyckoff radio program, he mentioned that more and more women are becoming aware that wardrobe buying should begin in the corset department—something we stress almost every time we discuss fashions. Also, as I pointed out, proper support for the figure is not only flattering, but healthful—an excellent way to prevent the sagging that is a sure sign of advancing years.

Come in during Playtex Week and think about your Playtex Wardrobe—there are foundation garments in this splendid, tried-and-true line for every occasion. The Playtex brief is wonderful for summer; the Playtex brief is marvelous under a swim suit—etc. As a matter of fact, if you're lucky, you may WIN a Playtex Wardrobe for just signing your name. What could be more thrilling?

JOHN F. CLIFTON JR., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clifton Sr. of Shawnee-on-Delaware who celebrated his 16th birthday this week.

Blister-Resistant House Paint

A Felton-Sibley Product

HAMILL'S PAINT CENTER
37 S. Courtland St., E. Stbg.
HA 1-1840

Describes Virtues Of New Paint

"USE THIS unusual new paint as directed or please don't use it," says Fred Fetherman of Fetherman's Paint Store, 766 Main St. in Stroudsburg.

The can of this unique ad-mo-nition on the lid of each can of Glidden's Spred House Paint points up both the virtues of the new product and the importance of proper application of this and all similar exterior latex emulsion coatings.

Only the Glidden container, however, carries such a frank warning for the purchaser.

Properly applied, on properly prepared surfaces, of course, Spred House Paint offers many new features and qualities hitherto unavailable in even the finest exterior oil paints.

The principal virtues of Spred House Paint are: exceptional blister resistance, great ease of application, rapid drying, capacity for application to damp wood surface shortly after a rain, immunity to damage from rain within 20 minutes after application.

On any Surface

Among its other qualities are its versatility — it can be applied on properly prepared surfaces of wood, masonry, metal and composition board — and its resistance to mildew and to weather in all types of climates.

Because it is an emulsion coating it can be thinned with water and the brushes or tools used to apply it can be cleaned with water.

In one major respect the Spred House Paint "System" is unique and unchallenged even by similar products of comparable quality. This uniqueness is imparted to the Glidden "system" by virtue of the two primer coats developed exclusively for use with Spred House Paint.

One of these products, Spred Primecoat No. 2, is the first emulsion primer coat offered by any major manufacturer. Created for use on previously painted surfaces, it dries to the touch in one hour and may be topcoated within six to eight hours, if drying conditions are normal. Thus it is possible to apply the necessary two coats of the Spred exterior latex system in a single day.

Use As Directed

Spred Primecoat No. 1, for use on new or unpainted exterior surfaces, is an oil base primer which requires the normal drying time of other top quality oil paints. Once a home has been painted with Spred House Paint and Primer, subsequent painting does not require priming.

Used as directed, says Fetherman our Spred House Paint offers the highest possible degree of blister resistance and durability equal to or better than the best oil paint schedule anybody has put on the market. It is far more durable than ordinary oil house paints."

Dog Owners Get Warning

TANNERSVILLE—Dog owners of Pocono Township are being warned to keep their dogs under control and on leash or line.

According to Constable Clair Shick, there has been a rash of incidents involving dogs running loose, destroying property and causing annoyance to motorists and people afoot.

This situation can only be corrected with the cooperation of all dog owners, Shick said. Rules governing the curbing of dogs will be strictly enforced.

Famed Bambino Hit Last Homer Of Great Career 25 Years Ago

By Mike Spooner
Central Press Association
Correspondent

PITTSBURGH—Nobody realized it at the time, but that mild May day just 25 years ago was an historic one in the annals of American sports.

For on May 25, 1935, George Herman—the great "Babe"—Ruth hit his last home run and ended his career as the greatest slugger ever seen in America's national sport.

He hit three homers that final day, as a matter of fact, but the game was his "last bright flame" and in a few days he had retired after a 21-year major league career that is still unmatched.

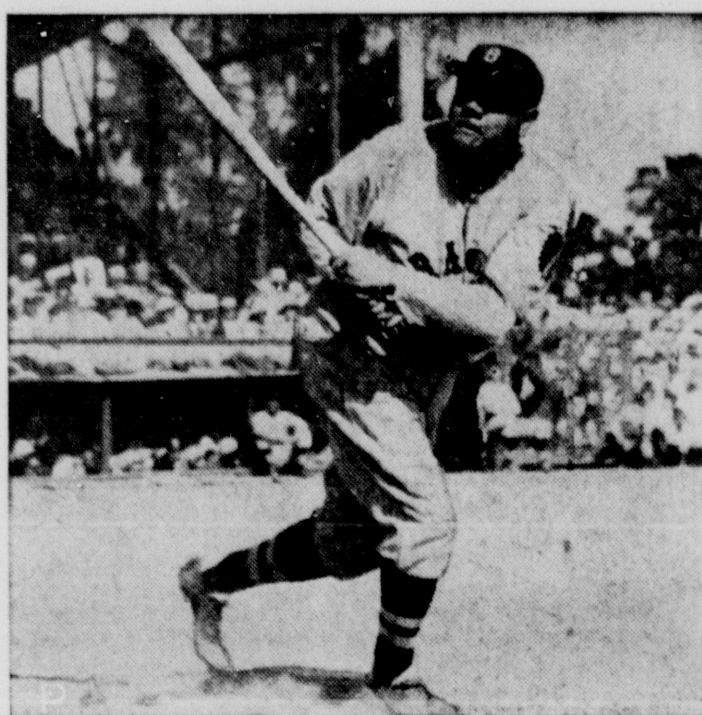

In that final game, Ruth was playing for the Boston Braves against Pittsburgh. But "his legs were gone," younger outfielders were catching balls in his territory, and he lacked the power and zest which had taken him to the very pinnacle of baseball fame.

Tough Getting Old

"IT'S HELL to be getting older," said Ruth as he returned to his apartment in New York and settled down into a comfortable retirement. But while he was barely 40 years old, he was fairly advanced in the age for big league competition and the Babe was never one to bother much about keeping himself in the pink physically.

Indeed, his 215 pounds were a burden to his spindly legs; he liked to stay up late, drink too much and eat quantities of food sufficient for a whole family!

Once, in fact, Babe Ruth's appetite landed him on newspaper front pages, and in the hospital. That was in 1925 when he collapsed after eating "yards" of one of his favorite foods, hot dogs.

Ruth, as a Brave, in 1935.

More than a few times he was reprimanded and punished for breaking training. And he was forever being massaged and exercised to keep his waistline down to something less than gargantuan proportions.

Sensation
Despite it all, of course, Babe Ruth was "a sensation from the start." That was in 1914 when he came to the Red Sox as a teen-aged pitcher, up from Baltimore and Providence. Besides being a born slugger, from the start, he had a blinding fast ball with which he soon

.342 Lifetime

During his 15 years as a Yankee star, Ruth was piling up his lifetime batting average of .342, his home run total of 714 in 2,503 games. In 1921 he smasher 59 home runs. But his peak, of course, was in 1927 when, on September 30—playing against Washington—he hit homer No. 60, a season record which still stands.

John Durant, in his book, The Story of Baseball, says that "the most magnificent gesture ever made on a baseball diamond" came in the 1932 World Series at Chicago. Boomed as he came to the plate, the Babe let two strikes go by, then pointed to the center field fence, and slammed the next pitch exactly there. Ruth laughed as he circled the bases and heard "his greatest ovation."

But in two years more, his batting average dipped below .300, he hit only 22 homers in his final 1934 Yankee season, and was sent to Boston as a player and assistant manager.

In May
That game is May just 25 years ago was his last as the great slugger of major league baseball. The son of a Baltimore saloon keeper, a street urchin who loved baseball more than life, his athletic career was done.

Through his showmanship and ability, he had done more than any other man to save baseball from the scorn it suffered as a result of the bribery scandals of the "Black Sox," and to raise it to the honorable level it enjoys today.

Never again would he be seen at bat. But, now dead, Ruth never will be forgotten.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Indiana is the Pennsylvania State College's Baseball Conference champion final standings showed today.

St. Paddy 5-1 Choice

LONDON (AP)—Sir Victor Sassoon's colt St. Paddy, England's big hope to win the Epsom Derby classic from the Irish and French trained horses, spurred to odds of 5-1 Monday.

When bookies met at their headquarters at London's Victoria Club to fix the odds, St. Paddy displaced the American-owned Die Hard as second favorite.

Sassoon's horse a week ago was third on the list at 10-1. He boosted his prospects with a handsome win in the Dante Stakes at York last week.

Four Yanks Cop Open Triumphs

PORTRUSH, Northern Ireland (AP)—Only four Americans, headed by Tim Holland of Rockville Centre, N.Y., staggered off the rain and wind-swept Portrush links Monday with first round victories in the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Ten of their fellow countrymen, feeling even colder, wetter and more miserable in defeat were eliminated by weather-hardened players from the British Isles. Most of the Americans beaten Monday and those who advanced with byes are stationed in Europe.

Worst Start
The U.S. contingent made its worst start in this tournament since World War II. But there were excuses for Uncle Sam's linksmen. Some of them had never even seen rain as hard as this Irish soaker before.

Counting players who received first round byes, the Americans had 15 shooters still left in the tournament. None of them, however, is in the class of Deane Beman, the collegian from Silver Spring, Md., who won last year but did not return to defend the crown.

Top favorite in the starting field of 180 was Dublin's Joe Carr, a two-time winner and a semifinalist on four other occasions. The Irish star and the seven other seeded players — all from the British Isles — received first round byes.

Over 18
All matches are over 18 holes except for the 36-hole semifinals and final on Friday and Saturday over the 6,842-yard, par 36-36-72 layout.

Holland, a semifinalist in this tournament in 1958, eliminated another American, Peter Grant of Phoenix, Ariz., 4 and 2.

Fraser Loses In Net Play

PARIS (AP)—Neale Fraser, Australia's top player, Monday was knocked out of the singles of French International Tennis Tournament by leg cramps.

The second-seeded star was forced to quit in the fifth set of a 2 1/2 hour fourth-round battle with tenth-seeded Robert Haillet of France. The Frenchman was leading 6-4, 6-2, 8-10, 3-6, 6-5, when the limping Fraser defaulted.

Fraser had pulled up from a 5-1 deficit in the final set. He started to limp near the end of the ninth game and finally had to stop when Haillet went ahead again.

Sugar Delays Workout Plans

BOSTON (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson delayed plans to come here Monday to begin training for his June 10 middleweight title bout with Paul Pender at Boston Garden June 10.

Robinson planned to fly to Boston but his plane was socked in by weather conditions in New York. Promoter Sam Silverman said he may not come here for several days.

The bout will be for the New York-Massachusetts version of the middleweight championship. Pender took the title from Robinson several months ago.

Paul Runyan was the leading money winner on the PGA Tour in 1934 with $6,767.00. By contrast, Ted Kroll set the all-time record for cash collecting in 1956, when he earned $72,825.83.

Becerra Still Champ

By JAMES CARY
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO (AP)—World bantamweight champion Jose Becerra of Mexico retained his title Monday night by gaining a narrow split decision over Japan's Kenji Yonekura in a 15-round bout telecast throughout Japan.

A crowd of about 25,000 in the 40,000-seat Korakuen baseball stadium saw the hard-hitting Mexican champion chase the retreating challenger throughout the fight.

But the 24-year-old Becerra, winner of 40 fights by knockouts, never could pin his fleet-footed opponent and set him up for a knockout. He didn't even score a knockdown. It was Becerra's 21st straight victory, 15 of them by knockouts.

Ko'd Halimi

The broad shouldered champion won the 118-pound division crown by knockout over France's Alphonse Halimi in 1959 and he put Halimi down for the full count again in their return bout last February. Anthony Macaroni, the president of the National Boxing Assn., from Providence, R.I., cast the deciding ballot. He had Becerra the winner, 147-141, under the 10-point scoring system. Referee Ramon Berumen of Mexico voted for Becerra, 146-142. Judge Ko Toyama of Japan had Yonekura ahead, 148-143.

$50,000 Guarantee

For his second title defense, Becerra received a $50,000 guarantee. The 25-year-old Yonekura, in his 11th professional fight, was guaranteed only $2,000. He came out of the fight, however, with added prestige.

Yonekura's record is 7-4 compared to Becerra's 68-4-2 won-lost-draw log. Each weighed 117 1/2 pounds.

"I was sure I had him all the way but I just couldn't catch him," said Becerra. "He is agile, fast and has good legs — very good legs. I kept trying for a knockout but I couldn't get to him."

"I thought I won," said the disappointed challenger. "His punches didn't hurt nearly as much as I was told they would."

Venetian Way Better-Trainer

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Trainer Vic Sovinski said Monday Venetian Way is a better horse than Bally Ache and will prove it in days to come.

Venetian Way won the May 7 Kentucky Derby by some 3 1/2 lengths with Bally Ache second. But Bally Ache led all the way in capturing the Preakness last Saturday by four lengths with Venetian Way fifth in the field of six.

Sovinski, who arrived here at Garden State Park Monday, asserted that the mile and a half Belmont Stakes in New York next month would be the real test.

Proposes Swing

"Those who think Bally Ache can lick Venetian Way by a city block may have to swing over after the Belmont," said Sovinski.

"The Preakness didn't change my mind on the ability of these two horses," the trainer said. "Bally Ache, of course, is a good horse. He's been out of the money only once, and you have to give him credit. But I'm not convinced he's better than Venetian Way."

Sovinski now is readying Venetian Way for the $100,000 added Jersey Derby at Garden State Memorial Day. Bally Ache plus C.V. Whitney's Tompon and Bourbon Prince also are slated to go in the Jersey at a mile and a furlong.

This gives the race four of the first five finishers in the Kentucky Derby.

How about a jockey for Venetian Way in the Jersey Derby, Sovinski was asked.

Bad Ride

The trainer, who after the Preakness asserted jockey Bill Hartack gave his charge a bad ride, said he didn't know who would get the assignment.

"I haven't given it much thought," he said.

How about Hartack?

"I don't think he will ride him," said Sovinski. "I can get a good boy, I'm sure. I don't need a top-flight jockey. Venetian Way is not a hard horse to ride. Any jockey can handle him."

Archery Unit Will Meet Tonight

POCONO Archery will hold its regular, monthly business meeting tonight at the Field Range clubhouse. Meeting is scheduled to get under way at 7 o'clock.

Meetings will be held at the clubhouse during the summer months with intra-club competition encouraged before meeting time.

An Archery league of club members will be organized at this evening's meeting, when complete details of the league will be given. Each team will shoot once a week during the summer months.

All club members are urged to attend this meeting and sign up. The league will provide intra-club competition for all members, as well as provide a means of improvement in technique through observance and personal advice.

The novice will be coached by his shooting companions and receive many tips on how to improve his technique. The advanced archer becomes more proficient through exchange of ideas.

Target maintenance assignments will be made. This plan is being adopted to better target conditions throughout the course.

Archery enthusiasts who are not members are invited to attend this meeting and learn of the benefits derived from membership in an archery club where the sole objective is to provide the opportunity for group participation in their favorite sport.

'500' Drivers Loaf At Track

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Drivers loafed and mechanics toiled Monday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where the 44th 500-mile race will be run next Monday.

From the close of qualifications Sunday night until the race start, the track will be open only two hours, noon to 2 p.m., CDT, Wednesday.

The brief open period will be used for final carburetion and chassis adjustment tests and for training pit crew in refueling and tire changing.

Hancock Track Granted License

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts Racing Commission has granted Hancock Raceway Inc., a license to conduct a running race meeting at Hancock from Sept. 19 to Oct. 15, it was disclosed Monday.

The decision reversed a previous ruling of the commission.

The proposed site of the track is located on Old Richmond Road, known as Rabour Farm. The assigned dates will give the track 24 consecutive days of racing with Sundays excepted.

LA Blanks Pirates Via Koufax

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Left-hander Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked league-leading Pittsburgh 1-0 Monday night on one hit. The loss cut the Pirates' lead over second-place San Francisco to one game.

Bennie Daniels, starting Pirate pitcher, got the lone hit off Koufax, a single in the second inning.

Koufax didn't permit a Pirate batter to reach base after the third inning when he issued his sixth walk. He retired the last 19 hitters in order. He struck out 10.

Tom Davis, rookie centerfielder who was batting only .138 before the game, knocked in the only run of the ball game in the seventh inning.

Johansson Confident

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—"I can go 15 rounds right now," said confident Ingemar Johansson Monday.

The world heavyweight champion made the remark from an easy chair. He took the day off from training for his return bout with Floyd Patterson at the Polo Grounds, June 20.

"If I don't knock him out again, I can outscore him," said Ingo. "I'm preparing to go all the way if I have to."

Klu Surges To Bat Lead

NEW YORK (AP)—Ted Klukszewski, recovering the form that made him a feared National League slugger, has taken over the American League batting lead with one of the most productive one-week performances of his 13-year career in the majors.

In six games covering 25 times at bat last week, Klukszewski collected eight singles, four doubles and two homers for 14 hits and a .560 average. He also drove in 10 runs and scored six times.

The surge increased the Chicago White Sox first baseman's batting mark from .307 to .406. He holds a comfortable margin over runner-up Norm Cash of Detroit .339 and Pete Runnels of Boston in third place at .358.

State Dems Expect Group's Leaders

HARRISBURG (AP) — Democratic officials expect to re-elect their state organization leadership Tuesday without opposition.

"I anticipate no change in the present leadership, nor do I see any opposition of any kind to the incumbents," said John S. Rice, Democratic state chairman.

Some Resolutions

He is up for re-election at the biennial reorganization meeting of the Democratic State Committee along with these other incumbents: vice chairman, Mrs. Louise Johns, West Chester; treasurer, J. Warren Mickle, Harrisburg; national committeeman, Gov. Lawrence, and national committeewoman, Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Slippery Rock.

However, Rice said he wouldn't be surprised if there were some resolutions or speeches urging the state committee to press for an open ballot on the first vote at the July Democratic national convention in Los Angeles.

But House Speaker H. G. Andrews (D-Cambria), a leading Kennedy backer in Pennsylvania, declared, "I don't think the state committee meeting is the proper forum for any such move."

"I don't think the committee has any right to do anything of the kind (in urging delegate action)," Andrews added.

His position is expected to head off any moves at the state committee meeting on party policy for convention delegates.

The convention delegation meets June 1. Gov. Lawrence is expected to be elected chairman of the delegation without opposition. However, there is speculation that backers of Sen. John F. Kennedy's bid for party nomination for president may seek to upset the neutrality position of the 81-vote delegation.

Not Bound

Earlier Monday Rice said it is unlikely the state's delegation will be bound by any rule that requires it to vote in a bloc according to majority command.

"I know of nothing that would prevent it, if the delegation wanted it that way, but I think it is unlikely," he said.

Oliver Loses Leading Lady, Joan

LONDON (AP) — Sir Laurence Olivier Monday lost his leading lady—the girl Lady Olivier says the actor-knight wants to marry.

Joan Plowright, co-starring with Sir Laurence in the Ineson play "Rhinoceros," went into hiding in London and the theater announced that she is ill.

"She is suffering from acute gastroenteritis and her doctor has forbidden her to act for some days," the theater said.

The 29-year-old Miss Plowright will, in any event, leave "Rhinoceros," June 5 when it moves from Chelsea's Royal Court Theater to London's West End. Her part will be taken by 25-year-old Maggie Smith.

Sought Divorce

In New York, Lady Olivier — better known as actress Vivien Leigh — issued this statement last weekend through her agent:

"Lady Olivier wishes to say that Sir Laurence has asked for a divorce in order to marry Miss Joan Plowright. She will naturally do whatever he wishes."

Sir Laurence stayed indoors at his London home. He refused to answer telephone calls and made no statement. He has still not confirmed or denied a statement by his wife, Vivien Leigh, that he wants a divorce in order to marry Miss Plowright.

Miss Plowright also has refused to make any statement about her personal affairs. "I have never sought that sort of publicity and never will," she told newsmen before she went into hiding.

Her husband, television actor Robert C. Cagney, from whom she separated 18 months ago, has been on vacation in Majorca for the past week.

Soviet May Note Future Of Americans

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet and East German sources promised Monday there will be a statement on the nine Americans — one a woman — whose Copenhagen-Hamburg flight Friday landed them in Soviet captivity.

The statement may come Tuesday. The Communist informants declined to say exactly when or even who would make it. There was no hint what bearing the statement might have on the captives' future.

The landing of a U.S. Air Force C-47 transport in Communist East Germany put the Americans in Soviet hands. The Soviets announced the plane was forced down by the Soviet military.

The United States is still awaiting a reply from Col. Gen. I. I. Yakubovskiy, commander of Soviet forces in East Germany, to a request Saturday from Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, U.S. Army commander in Europe, for immediate release of the Americans and the plane.

The incident involved a ticklish decision for the Soviets: Should they just hand the nine quietly back to the U.S. authorities, or turn them over to the Communist East Germans?

Mansfield said he never has heard of any Kennedy statement advocating an apology to Khrushchev and "I don't know of any Democrat who has called for such an apology."

Scott replied sharply that he hadn't called Stevenson and Kennedy supporters but that "if they are appeasers, let the record speak for itself."

Soon senators on both sides of the aisle were leaping in.

Belabor Stevenson

Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) challenged the Democrats either to take impeachment action against Eisenhower for his intelligence and summit policies "or stop this ridiculous talk against the President."

Senate 'Country' First Explodes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's country ahead of politics truce exploded Monday. Angry Republicans hurled impeachment implications at two Democratic presidential possibilities. Angry Democrats retorted the Republicans shouldn't try to picture the summit collapse as a great victory.

Amid the roaring oratory — which may well be repeated in the election campaigns ahead — there were echoes of soft-on-communism charges that figured prominently in the past two presidential battles.

Some Republicans objected to impending Senate investigations of the U-2 spy plane incident and other factors that led to the breakdown of the summit talks a week ago. Key Democrats promised a nonpolitical inquiry, and they got some GOP support.

Expect Herter

In the wake of the nearly three-hour debate, Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) announced he expects Secretary of State Christian A. Herter to appear before his Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Friday, to discuss incidents leading up to the summit breakdown.

The match was lighted by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. He rose in the Senate to say Adlai E. Stevenson may have planted dynamite under the East-West talks by suggesting in advance a soft approach to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

As backing for his charge, Dirksen cited an interview a Paris newspaper purportedly had with Stevenson on the eve of the summit meeting — an interview in which Dirksen said Stevenson favored concessions on Berlin, among other things.

This interview has been repudiated by Stevenson, his party's presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956, and a possible nominee again this year. Monday, he acknowledged talking with a French reporter, but said "What he reports me as saying have never been my views and are not my views today."

Scott Fires

Later, Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) piled on fuel by declaring Stevenson and Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, should be summoned before congressional investigators "to relieve themselves of the gross suspicion of appeasement."

Scott quoted Kennedy as saying in Portland, Ore., that he thought it might have been possible for President Eisenhower to apologize to Khrushchev for the spy plane flight, but that Kennedy later changed this to say he felt Eisenhower might have expressed regret.

Up jumped Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, acting Democratic leader in the Senate. He shouted that Scott was "doing a disservice to the country by putting words into the mouths of Mr. Stevenson and Sen. Kennedy and then calling them appeasers."

Mansfield said he never has heard of any Kennedy statement advocating an apology to Khrushchev and "I don't know of any Democrat who has called for such an apology."

Scott replied sharply that he hadn't called Stevenson and Kennedy supporters but that "if they are appeasers, let the record speak for itself."

Soon senators on both sides of the aisle were leaping in.

Belabor Stevenson

Sen. John Marshall Butler (R-Md.) challenged the Democrats either to take impeachment action against Eisenhower for his intelligence and summit policies "or stop this ridiculous talk against the President."

Dirksen and Butler belabored

Stevenson

Stevenson for saying in a Chicago speech last week that the Eisenhower administration — through the spy plane incident — had furnished Khrushchev a crowbar with which to wreck the summit talks.

Mansfield retorted he did not consider Stevenson's speech disturbing of national unity. "I have no fault to find with his making his honest views known."

The Montana said he resented what he called implications in Dirksen's speech that the Democrats, if elected this fall, would be "soft toward communism."

His voice rising, Mansfield told the Republicans: "We did not invite Mr. Khrushchev over here and Mr. Khrushchev did not invite a Democratic presidential candidate to visit him in the Kremlin."

Dirksen shot back that he could recall "another period when the President went to Yalta and Tehran." The GOP leader was speaking under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been accused by Republicans in the past of giving too much to the Soviets at World War II conferences with Soviet dictator Josef Stalin.

Mansfield said he hoped that "if anyone thinks the summit was a victory for us," a soon-to-be-held inquiry "will disabuse their minds."

Brokerage Firms Checked

By William A. Doyle

Q. When ordering stock over the telephone, is it necessary to have the broker call back and state the exact price at which my order was executed? Every time I buy stock, I always pay the highest price the particular stock traded at on that day.

A. It's not "necessary" to have your broker call back and confirm your order by telling you the exact purchase price. However, if it will give you peace of mind, you can tell him to do just that.

I think I know what you have in mind. You may suspect that your broker buys stock for you at one price, charges you a higher price (the highest price at which the stock traded on the day your order was filled) and pockets the difference.

This is an understandable suspicion — for people who don't realize the close supervision under which brokerage firms operate.

Brokerage firms are checked and their books are audited by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the National Assn. of Securities Dealers and the stock exchanges to which they hold membership. And let's not forget that, in many states, the state security commissions also do an exceptional "policing" job. It boils down to this: A brokerage firm might try some hanky-panky of this sort and might get away with it — for a while. But no responsible broker, in his right mind, would try it.

Q. I have followed your theory of long-term investing through dollar-averaging — putting a fixed amount of money into the same securities at fixed intervals. The results have been excellent. The market values of my stocks are now well above the "average" price I have paid.

However, more than half of my investments are in stocks of either steel companies or companies closely related to the steel industry. I feel I have too many eggs in the same basket. Wouldn't it be better for me to sell some of my steel stocks and diversify my holdings by buying stocks in companies in other industries?

A. Your letter gives the impression that you are a pretty substantial investor. But, no matter how big your holdings are, you have been successful in the past. Be careful that you don't get reckless in the future.

There's no denying that diversification can be mighty smart. You might have been better off (and less restless) if you had diversified at the time you started to invest. You could have done that by dollar-averaging in stocks in different industries — rather than making many of your steady purchases in stocks in the steel industry.

But steel stocks have treated you well so far. They should continue to do well by you in the future. They will have their "downs" as well as their "ups." Just remember that you are investing for the long haul.

If you want more diversification, you might consider calling a halt to some of your present buying programs. Instead, start buying good stocks in other industries.

However, don't sell the stocks you now hold — unless you are convinced that those stocks won't do well over the years ahead. Once you start selling good stocks and buying others, you're almost certain to pick up bad habits. You might become a hot-shot speculator.
